

Short Composition on The Student Life

Introduction: the period which we spend in school, colleges or universities to receive an education is called the student life. It is best to part of our life. This is free from all kinds of anxieties of the world.

Importance: in our boyhood, we are sent to school and our student life begins. It lasts until we enter into our worldly life. At schools and colleges, we come in close touch with teachers and other students. This gives us the opportunity to acquire knowledge and receive the lessons of fellow feeling.

A seed time of human life/a sowing season: student life is the seed time of human life. If we work hard and do all our duties as a student, we must suffer much in later life. So we must be sincere to our duties in student life.

The main duty of a student/primary duty of a student: to acquire knowledge, to build up a character and to prepare for future is the only object of a student. It is the seed time of human life. A student should think that education is life and preparation for the life. A student should not go through the textbook only. He should read newspapers, magazines etc. During his leisure. He should also read interesting books such as a novel, books, on travels, general knowledge etc.

Extra-curricular activities: in schools and colleges, a student gets opportunities to take part in many extra-curricular activities. He can join the debate; he can contribute articles to the magazine and cultivate his power of writing.

An ideal student: an ideal student finds much interest in preparing his lessons at home regularly. He goes to school regularly and punctually. At school, he obeys his teachers and listens to them attentively. He is intelligent, modest and hardy. He loves all and all love him.

The duty of a student other than study: a student has many other duties except study. He should take regular physical exercise in order to build up his health. He should take part in all outdoor game of the school and should be always neat and clean. A student should be a man of high thinking and plain living.

Social service/voluntary works: during holidays a student can render sonic voluntary school services as imparting education to the illiterate man, mending roads, pools etc.

Conclusion: student life is the most pleasant period of one's life. So it is the only chance for a student to use his time property.
