

Dialogue between Myself and My Friend about the Bad Effects of Illiteracy

Question: Suppose, you are Adib/Adiba and you have a friend named Nasir/Nasrin. Your friend is worried about illiteracy. Now, write a dialogue between you and your friend about the bad effects of illiteracy.

Answer: A dialogue between myself (Adlib) and my friend Nasir about the bad effects of illiteracy:

Myself: Ili, Nasir, how are you?

Nasir: I am fine. And you?

Myself: I am fine too. May I know your opinion about. illiteracy?

Nasir: Yes. It is a great problem as well as a curse for the country:

Myself: How?

Nasir: Because without education, no nation can develop as ignorance creates many other problems

Myself: what should we do then?

Nasir: we should work hand- in hand to educate the illiterate.

Myself: We also need to create. people's awareness so that they can send their children to school.

Nasir: Yes, of course. It is the key factor. Govt. has already taken many steps to remove illiteracy.

Myself: We must co-operate with the government.

Nasir: Yes, we must come forward in this respect.

Myself: If we are sincere in our words and deeds, nothing is impossible.

Nasir: That's right. Thank you.

Myself: OK. See you again.