What is a book fair?

What book fair did you visit?

Whom did you find gathering there?

What kinds of the book did you buy?

How did you feel about your visit?

Answer: A book fair is held to display the books of various kinds and taste with a view the creating interest among the people to buy and read more and more books. I visited the Ekushey Boi Mela this year. The main gate was beautifully decorated. I entered the fair and began to move from one stall to another with great interest. There were about 300 book-stalls installed by different publishing houses. Men, women, and children of all classes and ages gathered in the fair. Many poets, novelists, and writers made their appearance at the fair. Many of them were found exchanging greetings with the customers. Books were being sold at discount rates. Many rare books were also found available in the fair. I wished I could have purchased only there books named 'hamlet' by William Shakespeare. 'Manab Mukut' by Eakub Ali Chowdhury and 'Baraf Gala Nadi' by Zahir Raihan. Seminars and cultural programs were also held at the fair. I was very delighted to enjoy a staged drama based on the language movement of 1952. a book fair reminds us that books are our best friends and companions.

Question: Imagine recently you paid a visit to a book fair. Now write a paragraph about your visit to a book fair by answering the following questions:

When was it arranged?

How were the stalls?

Who arranged it?

Did you buy any book?

How were the pavilions?

Answer: It was the month of February. Bangla Academy arranged a book fair at its premises named Ekushey Boi Mela. I wish some of my friends visited the fair recently. I found their hundreds of pavilions were set up. All sorts of books were displayed there nicely. I visited different bookstalls of different publishers. I bought two storybooks. There was a crowd of people there. Some were roaming about and some were buying books. We were tired. So, we took some snacks from a nearby food stall. Then we left the place with a cheerful mind.

Answer: A book fair is an exhibition where different types of books are displayed and sold. Nowadays it has become very popular. I was very lucky to visit the Ekushey Boi Mela this year. Every year, the fair is held on the occasion of 21st February to remind us of the struggle MOM and sacrifice in the language movement. The fair is organized by Bangla Academy's authority on the premises of the institution. I went there with some of my friends. When I entered the main gate of the fair, I found a different environment. I saw all sorts of books such as fiction, textbooks dramas, children's books, reference books, etc. Men, women and children of all ages and classes gathered there. From a bookstall, I bought some of my favourite books. In the evening, many poets' novelists and writers came to visit the fair. It was the first time I saw some famous writers of our country. I took the autographs of Zafar Iqbal Selina. Hossain, Nirmulendu Goon and some others. In one corner of the fair, there were some stalls selling DVDs and some fancy goods I bought a DVD of poetry recitation. All of these were new experiences. to me because it was my first visit to the largest book fair in our country. In the evening I left the fair with my' friends with a mind full of joy and cheerfulness.
