

Paragraph on An Ideal Student

Question:

Who is an ideal student?

What does he consider his main duty?

Does he follow a dilly routine?

What does he do in the classroom?

How does he behave?

Does he perform any extracurricular activities?

What special qualities does he possess?

Question: a student who follows an ideal course for a good student is called an ideal student. He considers reading, writing, and learning his first and foremost duty. He does the right thing at the right time. He leads a routine-bound life and makes his lessons properly. He goes to school regularly and listens to his teachers with deep attention. He always follows the rule of discipline and respects his teachers and superiors. He is polite, sincere, honest, and well-behaved. He is also helpful to his fellow students. He follows the rules of health strictly and takes part in extra-curricular activities like games and sports. He keeps good company and follows the motto 'plain living and high thinking'. He possesses and good moral character. An ideal student is the pride and glory of a nation.

Or,

Paragraph on An Ideal Student

Question: Write a paragraph about 'An Ideal Student.' Your paragraph should include the answers to the following questions.

Who is an ideal student?

How is he punctual?

Does he cram anything?

What does a lie do to maintain sound health?

What role does he play in the welfare of the weak students?

What is his way of life?

Answer: An ideal student is good as a student and as a human being. He possesses many good qualities. First of all, He is a good student. He goes to school regularly and learns his lessons properly. He is very attentive in the class. Secondly, an ideal student is well-behaved. He respects his teachers and parents very much. He shows due respect to other people who are his seniors. He gives a tender to his junior. Thirdly, an ideal student takes care of his health. He is an early riser. He goes out for a morning walk. He plays outdoor games in the afternoon. Fourthly, an ideal student has some moral values. He does not tell a lie. He does not cheat people. He does not copy in the examination. Fifthly, an ideal student takes part in extra-curricular activities. He may take part in debating, acting, singing, and many other activities. Lastly, an ideal student is very cooperative and helpful to his classmates and other people. He is never angry with anyone. He is a model figure for other students to follow.

Or,

An Ideal Student / Your Idea of An Ideal Student

Question: Write a paragraph about 'An Ideal Student' by answering the questions below.

Who is an ideal student?

What are the duties of an ideal student?

Does he take part in games and sports?

Is he obedient to his superiors?

Answer: The word 'student' denotes a person who is fond of studies. But studies do not mean just bookish knowledge but real knowledge of men, society, nature, etc. Such variegated knowledge can be obtained only by a person of a strong mind, good heart, and sound health. So, the very meaning of an ideal student has a keen interest in developing an all-round personality. He has a thirst for knowledge. He has the curiosity to learn new and new things about man and nature. He has a routine for doing everything. Thus, he is regular and punctual. He gets up early in the morning, takes regular exercise, and goes to his school on time. He devotes his time to studying wholeheartedly and is in the good books of his teachers whom he respects sincerely as he respects his parents. He helps the weak students in their studies and never makes fun of them. He may have a healthy competition with other students but he is never jealous of them. Failures do not depress him, nor success turns his head. He has a balanced mind and personality. An ideal student is very particular about his character and manners. He is truthful, honest, and frank. He has no evil habits like drinking, smoking, gambling, cheating, etc. He is a great patriot and is ready to die for his country. In short, it can be said that an ideal student is excellent in their studies, good in co-curricular activities, respectful to his elders, and is followed by other students as a model of perfection.