

Paragraph on Bangladeshi Culture

Question:

What is a culture?

What is Bangladeshi culture?

How these affect the people?

What are the cultures of the ethnical group?

What are the social and cultural activities of the people?

How the people of Bangladesh celebrate their culture?

Answer: Culture is defined as art, literature, music and other intellectual expressions of a particular society or time. Every country has a culture of its own. The Bangladeshi is as old as it is rich and diversified. Social and religious customs have a great influence on it. The observance of the International Mother Language Day, Poush Mela', Mother Mela; Baisakhi Mela; and Basanta Utsab' are the most important of them. Besides, the birth and death anniversaries of the great personalities of the country have a great touch of our rich culture. During the winter the country witnesses a host of cultural events all around. Titha Utsab' and 'Nabannya' are considered most important. The first one deals with different types of mouthwatering 'Pitha'- or pancakes. Whereas 'Nabannya.' welcomes the harvesting of paddy. Besides different ethnical groups living in Bangladesh have their respective culture. They are also equally rich. Since a country is known for its culture, we must guard against any harmful invasion of foreign culture into ours.
