

Paragraph on Good Manners

Question: Answer the following questions to form a continuous paragraph. (100 words)

How can you define good manners?

How can it be attained?

Who can be a man of good manners?

Who is liked in society?

Why should you be good-mannered?

How do you feel being good-mannered?

Answer: Good manners are those qualities that make a man gentle, polite, and well-behaved. It keeps him free from doing evil works. It also makes him dignified and sensible. It can be attained easily through willpower. A person can gain it by obeying the orders and advice of his parents, teachers, and seniors. Firstly, it must be attained by the family. The family atmosphere teaches a person how to behave in different situations with different people of different tastes and temperaments. Student life is the best period to cultivate good manners and noble qualities. An obedient boy or student can be a person of good manners. By obeying the instructions of seniors from his boyhood, he can be a man of good manners. Honest, well-behaved, hardworking, and pious men are liked in society. To be a successful man in society, I should be a man of good manners.

Or,

Paragraph on Good Manners

Question: Write a paragraph about 'Good Manners' by answering the questions below.

How can you define good manners? (b) How can it be attained? (c)
Who can be a man of good manners?
Who is liked in our society?
Why should you be well-mannered?
How do you feel being good-mannered?

Answer: Good manners are some qualities that make a man gentle, polite, and well-behaved. These qualities keep a man free from doing evil deeds. These qualities also make him dignified and sensible. Good manners can be attained easily through willpower. A person can gain good manners by obeying the orders and advice of his parents, teachers, and seniors. Firstly good manners must be attained by family. Gradually a person learns from his surrounding how to behave in different situations with different people of different tastes and temperaments. Student life is the best period to cultivate good manners. By obeying the instructions of seniors from his boyhood, a student can be a man of good manners. Honest, well-behaved, hard-working, and pious men are liked in our society. To be successful in our society, we should be good-mannered. Being good-mannered, we feel humble and happy.