Answer: My brother/Friend is not a good, student. I advised him to become a good student in the following manner. First, he should go to school regularly and listen to his teachers attentively. He should sit on the first bench. Then, he must do his homework regularly and if anything, difficult, next, he should consult lessons regularly and avoid cramming because cramming without understanding bears no result. After that, he should revise his lessons and by writing time and again he is to be sure that lesson has been done well. Finally, he should obey the superiors especially the teachers and the parents who will help him in the matter.
