

Paragraph on How to Behave with Friends

Behavior means the manners or conducts shown to others and friend means a company. A friend is not a relative but known to each other very well. Man is a social being. He has to maintain a good relationship with someone of his own age. In doing so he makes friends to maintain it. Behavior is very important. I am a student and so I have some friends who are my classmates. I should know how to behave with them. First, I should select three or more brilliant students in my class as my friends. I should behave with them very gently. I should be insinuating with them. Then I should help my friends in all respects even in times of their danger. Because a true friend is always ready to make any sacrifice for his friends. When I help my friend, I feel happy. I should not quarrel with them. I should study together and discuss various problems with the study. I should keep their minds filled with the fresh air of love. Next, I should invite my friends to my house. I must invite my friends when any function will be held. I should stand by my friends in his weal and woe. After that, I should be the daily partner of games and other necessary matter they feel. Finally, bad temper should be avoided. I should remember "A friend in need is a friend indeed." I should accept all good qualities in my friends and convince them to give up their bad practice if any I know a good company makes a man good. In order to reach the goal in life if Behavior is a great virtue and this virtue helps prolongs maintaining friendship forever. So, every day should be careful about his behavior in choosing and keep and maintain a friendship.

Or,

How to Behave with Friends

Question: Write a paragraph advising your friend /brother how to behave with friends. You may use the following keywords:

First, classmates, then, study, visit, after that, finally, sacrifice, next, invite

Answer: Man is a social being. He has to maintain good relationships with the people around him. In doing so he makes friends with someone of his own age. We make friendship in our student life. We should know how to behave with friends. First, you should be intimate with your friends. As friends are classmates, you should not quarrel with your friends. Then, you should help your friend in all respects. Good friends study together, discuss various problems and solve them. A true friend is always ready to make any sacrifice for his friend. Next, it is necessary to invite your friend to your house and to visit his house from time to time. After that, you should stand by your 'friend in his weal and woe. Finally, you must be careful in choosing friends. Your behavior may guide your friend to the correct path. Accept all good qualities of him and convince him to give up his bad practice.