Answer: MY younger brother Raju reads in class nine. He does not know how to do gardening. I give him the idea of how he can do it practically. First, a small piece of land is chosen. The land should be very close to the dwelling-house. The land is loosening with a spade. When the land is loosening, the weeds are removed. Then the soil is manured well and kept exposed. The soil is given a small particle form and is leveled by a leveler. As a result, the soil of the garden is ready to sow seeds or plantations. Next, the garden is fenced so well so that cows, goats, hens, and even the wicked children cannot do any harm to it. Then possible flowerbeds are made per choice. Some seasonal flowers can be grown all year round. However, that seeds are sown. Thus, gardening is completed. After that, the garden is weeded out and the plants are taken care of. The garden is also watered frequently. Finally, the flower fills the heart of the gardener with joy.

Paragraph on How to Make a Garden

My younger sister who is a student of class five is very interested in gardening but she does not know how to make a garden. She sought my help and suggestion and according to her request, I suggested to her how to do this. First I suggested she select a suitable piece of land in front of her reading room. Then I suggested she spade, loose, and level the soil. Next, I told her to fence the land so that naughty boys and other animals are unable to do any danger in it. After that, I told her to show the seeds of different flowers of different seasons and to plant many kinds of flowers and plants in them. Finally, I suggested she do work in the garden morning and afternoon daily. I told her to water in the plants daily, weeds out the grass, and apply manure to the plants so that harmful insects are unable to do any harm to her plants and flowers. She should plant good seeds and plants in her garden.

To make a garden first we should select a piece of suitable land.

Then we have to make loose the soil. We can make the land into small plots. Then we use manure, make the soil level, and plant seedlings. After that, we protect them from the sun and water the plants regularly. We should make fences around the plots. We have to work there in the morning and afternoon. We can grow different kinds of flowers. We can use a portion for growing vegetables. Finally, when the flowers bloom, the garden looks beautiful. It gives us great joy.
