Answer: A birthday party is a happy and attractive occasion in modern society. It is observed on one's birthday. It comes once every year with joy and merriment. I celebrated my last birthday on 1st December 2017. I was 17. It was the fifteenth birthday of mine. I invited my friends and relatives. It was held at our residence in Gulshan. On this occasion, our drawing room was nicely decorated with flowers and festoons. The house wore a festive look. We ordered a birthday cake. My father bought a fine new dress for me and my mother was going to give me a pleasant surprise. The cake arrived in time. Different items of food were placed on the table. My friends and guests began to arrive in twos and threes. By 5 o'clock everybody arrived. We all stood around the dining table. I merrily cut the cake. A round of applause followed. Plates full of delicious food items were handed over to the guests. We ate them in the midst of merriments, songs, and music. The camera of my brother was clicking on. He took pictures of rare moments. The presents brought by my friends and others were given to me. I thanked them all. I enjoyed the day very much. The party was rounded off with a chorus 'Happy birthday to you'.

Answer: A birthday party is of great importance to anyone. It helps one to remember one's day of birth. It is both ordinary and philosophical. Last Sunday I celebrated my 15th birthday. I decorated the house artfully on that occasion. Our relatives, friends, and invited guests were present on the occasion. My parents gave me two golden rings. I was happy getting the beautiful gifts from my parents. My friends gave me books, diaries, flowers, and the liking. I enjoyed the occasion to my heart's content. It was very pleasant and enjoyable. When all the guests and friends came, I cut the cake. It was then 8 o'clock at night. At the time of cutting the cake my friends and invited guests sang the chorus "Happy Birthday to Rana." One of my friends took snaps of the occasion. Different kinds of foods were served on the occasion. Those items were tasty. Delicious cakes and beverages were also included in the items. On the occasion, I wore a costly dress. It made me look handsome and wonderful. Everybody at the party praised my dress up. Really, I was impressed by their praise. In fact, the day was very encouraging and entertaining to me.
