

Paragraph on Rural Life

Question: Answer the following questions to form a continuous paragraph (100 words).

What is rural life?

What are the main features of rural life?

How is it different from urban life?

Do you like rural life?

What measures may be taken to improve the standard of rural life?

Answer: Rural life means village life. Village life has two advantages. The main feature of rural life is peacefulness, the other is naturalness. Life in a village is calm and quiet and uneventful. Villagers do not suffer from tension. In a village, the air is free from pollution. From the village, one gets fresh air, vegetables, fruits, and fish. One can swim and walk without fear of accidents as in the city. These are not available in urban life and this makes rural life different from urban life. Although electricity has reached some villages, most of the urban amenities are still absent. Life in a city is artificial. I do always prefer village life. Villages keep us alive because our farmers live in villages. They produce the rice we eat. I, therefore, like to live in a village that is pure and simple.

Or,

Rural Life

Question: Write a paragraph about 'Rural Life' by answering the questions below.

What is rural life?

What are the main features of rural life?

How is it different from urban life?

Do you like rural life?

What measures may be taken to improve the standard of rural life?

Answer: Rural life means village life or living in a rural area. The main features of rural life are peacefulness, tranquility, freshness, etc. Rural life is calm and quiet and uneventful. Rural people do not suffer from tension. In the rural area, the air is free from pollution. One gets fresh air, vegetables, fruits, and fish. One can swim and walk without fear of accidents as in the city. These are not available in urban life and this makes rural life different from urban life. Although electricity has reached some rural areas, most of the urban amenities are still absent here. Life in a city is artificial. Our rural life is not always as happy as we think. People living in rural areas often suffer from various diseases and malnutrition. They do not get proper treatment and education. Government should set up hospitals and schools in rural areas to ensure medical and educational support. Moreover, a communication system should be developed to improve the standard of rural life.