

Paragraph on Terrorism

Question: Answer the following questions to form a continuous paragraph. (100 words)

What is terrorism?

Where was the origin of terrorism?

What are the differences between criminals and terrorists?

What is the aim of terrorists?

What is the expectation of the people nowadays?

Answer: It is difficult to define terrorism. It is seen that in many cases terrorists fight for their legal right. On the other hand, their right may be illegal to those against whom the terrorists run their movements. Other people think that terrorism is the introduction to revolution. We see the expansion of terrorism after the Second World War. It is said that it originated from the Third World or the Middle East. If we look back, it is seen that it came to light at the end of the nineteenth century. The main aim of terrorists is to terrify, to create panic. Criminals commit crimes because of their moral bankruptcy. But terrorists try to justify their activities from a moral angle of vision. And this is where the main difference lies between the terrorists and criminals. The world is now standing on the volcano of terrorism. Today people want to live in peace. They do not expect any harmful activities. They want to make a better place for future generations who will peacefully lead their lives.

Or,

Terrorism

Question: Write a paragraph about 'Terrorism' by answering the questions below.

What is terrorism?

Where was the origin, of terrorism?

What are the differences between criminals and terrorists?

What is the aim of terrorists?

What is the expectation of the people nowadays?

Answer: 'Terrorism is the use of violent action to achieve political aims or to force a government to act according to some demands. In many cases, terrorists fight for their legal rights. On the other hand, their right may be illegal to those against, whom the terrorists run their activities. Many people think that terrorism is the introduction to revolution. We see the expansion of terrorism after the Second World War. It is said that it originated from the Third World or Middle East. If we look back, it is seen that it came to light at the end of the nineteenth century. The main aim of terrorists is to create panic. Criminals commit crimes because of their interests. But terrorists try to justify their activities from a moral angle of vision. And this is the main difference between the terrorists and criminals. The world is now standing on the volcano of terrorism. Today people want to live in peace. They do not expect any harmful activities. They want to make a better place for future generations who will peacefully lead their lives.