

Paragraph on Travelling

Traveling means going from one place to another for different purposes. They also explore to see the unseen and know the unknown. Travelers always travel to the most beautiful places of the world which uphold the existence of nature. All things are created by Allah. There are many means to see the unseen and know the unknown, but traveling is the best of all. For example, Reading books gives us literal knowledge, the listening story gives us indefinite ideas, but traveling gives us visual as well as concrete knowledge. At the same time, people do not travel for the same purposes. Someone travels to gain knowledge and experience, someone travels for pleasure, someone travels for business purposes, etc. There are different types of traveling like- traveling by air, bus, boat, train, bus, etc. Every traveling has much educative value. It is a part of education. Our education and book knowledge remain imperfect without traveling. For this reason, we can learn many things by traveling. It teaches us trade and commerce, language, sociology, customs, culture, history, geography, and so on. Therefore, the educative value of traveling beggars description. Besides, there are some special benefits of traveling. If a man stays in one place for a long time, he becomes monotonous and his life becomes boring and callous. Travelling removes our monotony and gives pleasure. Similarly, it also broadens our outlook and refreshes our minds. A good traveler can easily educate others. He can give us first-hand knowledge of men and matters of another country. I like traveling very much.

Short Paragraph on Travelling

Question: Write a paragraph on 'Travelling by answering the following questions.

How is traveling useful?

What do many of us want to do?

What can we see when we go on traveling?

What can we get by traveling?

Answer: Travelling is a part of education. By traveling we can be familiar with the home and abroad. Many of us want to travel to exciting places and meet our new friends. Some travelings are expensive while some are cheap. Leaving our place when we go on traveling, we can see the golden apples growing. There below another sky Parrot islands anchored lie. There are eastern cities with mosques and minarets among the sandy garden set. And the rich goods from far and near are gathered for sale in the bazaar. Some silent cities stand on the desert islands. There is no street or house nor a sound of child or mouse. The ugly crocodile lies in the Nile and the red flamingo flies hunting fish under blue skies. In the jungle man-devouring, tigers are very alert because of the hunter. Thus, we can gather vast knowledge by traveling.
