

Paragraph on Value of Time

It is true that time and the tide wait for none. Time once gone is gone forever. Man's life is short. He has to do a lot of things. So by making the right use of time, he can be successful in life. Time is more precious than wealth. The loss of money can be regained by hard work. The loss of knowledge can be acquired by study. Again, the loss of health can be recovered by taking medicine and good food. But the loss of time can never go back. Value of time reminds us of our duties. Human life is short and transitory. But a man has got many things to do during the short span of his life. So he should rise early in the morning. Because an early-riser gets more time in order to accomplish all his duties. Active persons properly utilize their time. They divide their time and work accordingly. Even some feel the want of time. But idle men sit idly instead of trying to do any useful work. So they live in misery and die in misery. If we go through the lives of great men we know that they properly utilized their time. Even some lower animals are active. Ants, bees and other animals are active. They work for themselves. Human life is made up of moments. If we neglect the moments, we neglect the whole life. So we should make the best use of time.

Or,

The Value of Time

The value of time is very great. It is more valuable than money. We can make up the loss of money by industry, the loss of health by medicine but lost time is never found again. Everybody ought to make proper use of time an active man is conscious of the value of time. It is sure that he must prosper in life, who will use time properly. We should not misuse time and the misuse of time should be great loss for life. We must, therefore, make the right use of time. An industrious man, who did not lose his time, can do well in life. An idle man is the root of all evils and courses. In future much. He always thinks and depends on others. In fact, time is a valuable thing. If we use time properly, our life will be prosperous and glorious. So everybody should make proper use of time.
