

Story on What Is Play to One May Cause Death to Another

There was a pond full of frogs. Some of them often put their heads out of the water and croaked loudly. One day some boys were playing by the side of the pond. When they heard the frogs croaking, they began to throw stones at them. All the frogs at once went down into the water. But the boys remained standing there with stones in their hands. The new game was great fun for them. They went on pelting the frogs with stones when they raised their head above the water. Thus, many frogs were if it hard and a few were killed. At last, an old frog raised its head and said, "Oh boys please! please! stop the cruel fun. Don't throw stones at us." "It is a play. We are enjoying it," said the boys. "What is a play to you causes death to us. This is why, you should stop it," answered the frog. Being ashamed they left the cruel game and went away.

Or,

What's a Fun to one is a Death to Another

There was a big pond in a certain village. It was filled to the brim with water. Many frogs Mstceit took their shelter to the brim in the pond. Some of them put their heads out of the water and croaked loudly. One day some naughty boys were playing by the side of the pond. When they heard the frogs croaking, some of them started to throw stones into the pond for fun. These stones hurt some of the frogs. All the frogs at once went down into the water. But the boys did not leave the place. They remained standing there with stones in their hands. They went on pelting the frogs with stones when they raised Ccren their heads above the water. So an old frog raised his head out of the water and said, "Dear boys, don't throw stones at us. please." "We're playing," said the boys, laughing. "I understand that," said the old frog. "But the stones you throw a hit and hurt us. What's fun to you is death to us."
